TAKING THE TIME TO...

We Jews really like to joke that the holidays are either early or late; they never seem to fall on time! Well, this year they are REALLY late! Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur both fall during the month of October, towards the later end of the High Holy Day window. One of the benefits of the Holidays late arrival is that we have more time to prepare for them. Over the last couple of years, we've been buying our round challahs, making matzah ball soup, dressing in our finest, and running off to Bolton Street towards the beginning of September. We barely had time to adjust from the end of the summer or the start of the school year before the holidays were upon us.

Jewish tradition teaches that we need the days and weeks prior to the holiest days of the year to prepare for their arrival. Elul, the last month of the Jewish calendar, is considered to be one of the holiest times of the year. These four weeks officially begin the High Holy Day season. In most years, Elul falls smack dab in the middle of August. We rush to buy school supplies, take those last vacations of the summer, and prepare for the year ahead, that Elul often goes unnoticed. But not this year!

Elul officially begins on Sunday, September 1st, at the tail end of the Labor Day weekend. The late start provides us with the time to do things a little bit differently this year. The rabbis remind us that change is difficult. We know in our heart of hearts that we can't change our behavior solely during the few hours we spend at synagogue. We recognize that there are so many forces around us, including our own inertia, that makes change challenging. That's why we have Elul. From the start of Elul till the end of Yom Kippur, are forty days, filled with boundless opportunities to impact not only our lives, but those around us.

We know what steps we must do to change our lives for the better. Taking time to reflect; jotting down our thoughts in a journal (or on our cell phone); taking some private moments to pray; giving tzedakah; and preparing for our time at synagogue. The rabbis teach that our most important responsibility during the High Holy Days is called Cheshbon HaNefesh, the accounting of our souls. May we take the gift of these late days of Elul to prepare for the holidays' arrival. May we find a few prayerful moments to reflect, journal, and account for our mistakes. May our individual introspection lead us to improve, not only our lives, but the lives of all those that surround us. May it be a meaningful Elul for us all!

FROM THE PRESIDENT

FROM THE PRESIDENT

I'm writing this column from Portland, Oregon, where my husband Ralph Raphael and I are visiting our children and grandchildren. An article in today's Baltimore Sun was a reminder of how closely we're all connected despite being 2800 miles apart. The Sun article is entitled, "Ore. Braces for Far-right Rally and Counter Protest." The same right-wing groups are expected that showed up in 2017 for the violent Unite the Right rally in Charlottesville, VA. It's hard to reconcile the comforting wine-tasting culture of Portland with the hate.

As Bolton Street Synagogue president, I'm learning more and more that people come to our spiritual home to help reconcile the same stress between wanting a warm experience and a need to oppose injustice. "If you're interested in a synagogue that practices social justice, Bolton Street is the place to go," a couple with two young children recently said to me at Shabbat services. They are looking for a religious school for their children and a community for themselves where their passion for social justice is matched by action.

The Social Action Committee (SAC), led by Debra Brown-Felser and Judy Bass, is going non-stop helping improve education for Baltimore school children, supporting the rights of immigrants, providing food to a homeless shelter, and more, sometimes on our own and sometimes in partnership with likeminded groups. On July 12, Rabbi Gordon spoke to a crowd of hundreds at a downtown Baltimore rally and march opposing ICE, surrounded by many members of Bolton Street and friends from across the city. On August 11, several of us participated in a Tisha B'Av action at the Howard County Detention Center in Jessup, MD, opposing immigrant detention camps and family separation. Right now, a Bolton Street team is planning a trip to the southern border as part of a HIAS initiative to provide legal advice to people waiting to enter the US from Mexico. These activities by no means preclude our internal social action activities supporting our own members and staff who need a loving, helping hand.

Plus, to supercharge our efforts with the at-large Baltimore community, we're joining BUILD, working together for a better Baltimore through workforce development, strategic partnerships, and political advocacy.

The Bolton Street Synagogue mission statement rests next to my desk as a reminder of our reason for existing, our raison d'être: "To be an inclusive Jewish home for the diverse Baltimore community engaging in spirituality, friendship, learning, and social justice." Thanks to staff, volunteers from the congregation, and others who support Bolton Street in their own personal way, we are faithfully working on fulfilling our mission.

I'm proud to say that we're doing well on all counts. My hope is that you've found or will find the right niche for yourself at Bolton Street.

The High Holy Days are coming soon. I'm thinking about my speech. Maybe it will be about the invigorating effect of good gatherings. Ralph and I are looking forward to a meaningful and comforting gathering with you.

L'shalom,

Elaine

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL YEAR BEGINS!

It is hard to believe another summer is in the books! I hope you are ready like I am to be back in school and starting our Sunday mornings celebrating Havdalah together! Our first day of school will be September 8th at 9:00am. We will join together for a service project and BBQ at 11:00am. Parents are encouraged to join us for the BBQ to see old and new friends.

The following week, September 15th, we will have our Parents Back to School day where parents have the opportunity to meet their student's teacher and learn about their curriculum. Parents should arrive at 11:00am on this day.

This year we have a few weeks of learning before High Holidays. Please see the High Holiday schedule on the next page and note that on September 29th we will meet at 4:30pm for Rosh Hashanah in the Meadow, and on October 13th, we will meet at 4:30pm also for learning and activities followed by a potluck. We will be meeting at 4:30pm on both days in lieu of usual school hours.

The following week, on October 20th, we will be celebrating Simchat Torah at 10:30am, but will meet for normal school hours at 9:00am. We welcome all our members, not just those with families in the school to join us, as we dance and celebrate the Torah. Together we will read the last Torah verses, and then begin chanting the first Torah verses together. This is a beautiful day to celebrate ending and then restarting the Torah cycle together, as a community.

Please see the flyers to reinforce the schedule of events and feel free to be in touch with any questions you may have. I am thrilled to begin another fantastic year together!

Best,

Jillian

NEWS & UPCOMING EVENTS

This summer Bolton Street Synagogue members have been engaged in social action through advocacy for social justice. We have participated in numerous events in collaboration with the Union for Reform Judaism (URJ), Jews United for Justice (JUfJ) and other area synagogues and allies. As the US news continues to distress and the risk for vulnerable immigrants – whether by our government or by regular citizens – increases, we continue to stand up and say we will not allow these things to continue in our name.

In May, Rabbi Gordon, Melissa Zieve, Ethel Zelenske and Judy Bass represented BSS at the URJ Religious Action Committee Consultation on Conscience in DC. We joined with congregational leadership and membership from across the Reform movement to build organizing and advocacy skills and deepen our commitment to Tikun Olam.

In July, we joined JUfJ, CASA, and other organizations in the national Lights for Liberty Vigil to support immigrant families and to call for the end of child detention by ICE. Rabbi Gordon led a moving shabbat candle lighting ceremony at the Inner Harbor before we all marched to the Customs and Border Patrol (CBP) offices in Hopkins Square.

In the heat of the summer at Art Scape, we joined more than 100 activists joined in a protest organized by JUfJ to raise awareness about ICE actions and highlight two Artscape sponsors who have ties to ICE: Johns Hopkins University and PNC Bank. Read more about it in the Baltimore Sun (<https://www.baltimoresun.com/maryland/baltimore-city/bs-md-ci-jews-against-ice-rally-20190721-hpi6fp6difh5pbdxekxnoteuyu-story.html>)

And on Sunday, August 11th, we gathered at the Howard County Detention Center for a Tisha B'Av #CloseTheCamps rally to collectively mourn the treatment of immigrants in our country. Together with Jews and allies throughout Maryland we demonstrated publicly that we will not turn our backs on refugees arriving in our country or on our immigrant neighbors already here. Similar Tisha B'Av events were held in over 50 cities throughout the country.

The next SAC meeting will be September 17 when we will discuss our agenda for next year. We encourage all members to attend.
